So, how about a motoring holiday; they're a great way to see more than just the hotel bar and the pool loungers - you take your trusty car, or hire a model that you've always wished for, and you and your chosen partner are off to see the sights before you can utter, "cheap car insurance".

Here are some of CoverGirl's favourite Driving Holiday ideas:

Eurotunnel getaways with your car

Think about it, Folkestone to Calais in just 35 minutes, in the comfort of your own car, without having to worry about White Van Men tailgating you and no unexpected roadworks. You could paint your nails, read a book, or just plan what you're going to do when you get there.

Shopping, shopping and more shopping

Christmas markets are a highlight of the European shopping calendar and at around an hour and a quarter's drive away from Calais, Bruges in Belgium is an annual delight that will put you completely in the festive spirit. By driving there you will be able to stuff your car with goodies that your friends and family will adore, so no more worries about how you'll carry it all home. The medieval town's cobbled streets and historic architecture come to radiant life as stall upon stall offers you all manner of Christmas goodies and a thoroughly delightful backdrop to your motoring getaway. The Bruges Christmas market runs from 24th November to 31st December annually.

Or, if you want to stay in France, how about the Lille Christmas market from mid-November to the end of December. Driving from Calais, it will take you approximately an hour and twenty minutes, and once there you'll be greeted by a plethora of stalls that take over the Place Rihour in the centre of the town, selling arts, crafts and local cuisine. You've saved cash with CoverGirl cheap car insurance, so why not treat yourself to something wonderful.

Drive yourself to Disneyland Paris and have the time of your life

It takes about three hours to drive to Disneyland Paris from the Eurotunnel terminal, but once you've ridden the Twilight Zone Tower of Terror or joined the Pirates of the Caribbean to search for buried treasure in Adventureland, you can take your car and visit the more historical sites of France at Orleans or Rouens. That's the beauty of a motoring holiday - you can go anywhere you want to.

Don't forget driving in the UK

Great Britain has some of the most beautiful countryside on the planet and a driving trip to the Welsh mountains or the lakes of Scotland can be as wonderful and unexpected as any foreign excursion.

How about packing your golf clubs and driving to St. Andrews to immerse yourself in the 'auld grey toon's' special ambiance as the spiritual home of the beloved 18-hole game. Scottish courses offer the authentic golfing experience and when you're back at your hotel, after a gruelling par 72, you can sample a single-malt, or two, in front of a roaring open log fire – Bliss.

Go further afield and hire the car of your dreams

A fly-drive holiday in the States is, for many lady motorists, the ultimate driving experience. Hire the very swanky Chrysler 300m with its 3.5litre V6 engine with all the luxury extras you could ever need, or how about cruising into Las Vegas in your Chrysler Sebring convertible, with the wind in your hair and the roulette tables at your beck and call?

If the wonder of nature is more your thing, then take a 4x4 to Colorado and visit the spectacular Rocky Mountains. This awe-inspiring trip could be the driving experience of a lifetime for you, but remember to check the details of your car insurance when you hire your car. Some firms offer special packages to give you better cover and money-off deals.
